

The intent of this information is to provide guidance to leaders in the education system about the military, military children, and the issues that may arise from a deployment or other separation of a military parent(s).

This collection of information should also be used as a resource to learn what signs to look for when a military child may have an issue, different suggestions as to how to approach a military child and tend to their needs.